

How many people does it take to plant 1 Billion Seeds to Feed?

How many tons of food can we grow with 1 Billion Seeds?

How much square feet of space is needed to plant 1 Billion Seeds?

Feed Your City Organization charity is collaborating with Parc Downsview Park Inc. to build a sustainable program called “The Seed to Feed Bank Security System”. Together with the Seeds of Diversity, Canada’s National Heritage Gardeners network, other non profits, educators and other food security leaders we are working together to preserve the remaining Heirloom Heritage seeds from extinction and preserve them in a Seed to Feed Bank Terminal System at Downsview Park.

Our campaign engages people young and old in planting, growing and caring enough to save the seeds to feed them. Together with Government, schools, families, friends, colleagues, business ambassadors, and local food groups we can come together and start growing our own local, nutritious, carbon neutral food in our cities on our city roof tops.

- ❖ Average space needed to plant one vegetable seed is 1.5 square feet
- ❖ 1 Seed = Produces 2.25 lbs of food = enough food to feed 2 People for 1 day
- ❖ 1 Seed = Produces on average approx. 100 seeds
- ❖ 100 seeds grow to feed 100 people for one day or 10,000 seeds
- ❖ 10,000 seeds grow to be 100,000lbs of food or 1,000,000 seeds

From Seed to Feed it takes 120 days for the average tomato to grow.
$1.00 dollar per seed pledge – Works out to be 0.008 cents per day for someone to care for a tomato seed to grow to feed from within nurseries and roof top gardens.

Plant the seeds to feed, or sponsor others to!
